About

BERTRAND LEJOLY

After studying at the École supérieure des arts Saint-Luc in Liège and several years of work experience in Germany and Italy, Bertrand Lejoly joined in 2013 Belgian architect Vincent Van Duysen as Head of Product Design. In 2018 he founded his own design studio in Antwerp. He describes his style as 'refined simplicity'. His objects walk the boundary between an expressive yet subtle design language. He especially likes to play with elements that are engraved in the collective memory to create timeless items for everyday use.

COSE

That which the English describe as 'stuff', the Italian's refer to so much more nicely as 'Cose'. All sorts of different things. That's precisely what designer Bertrand Joly wanted to achieve with his collection: a variety of accessories that can be used in many different ways. While the first impression of Cose may be that of bathroom accessories, the bowls, jars and soap dispenser can also be perfectly translated into other rooms and functions. "I see Cose just as well in the kitchen, where the jars can be used for the aperitif, or as storage containers. The soap dispenser is also of added value in the kitchen. What makes Cose a collection is that it is not limited to the bathroom at all," explains Lejoly. The rounded lines fit perfectly into the simple and refined design language of the Belgian designer. "The accessories are present, but at the same time they are subtly adapted to any interior style, from modern to classic."

What's more, the craftsmanship involved in the manufacture of these porcelain objects ensures that Cose does not look too sterile. The tiny imperfections make each object unique. The matt shades in off-white and coal-black also emphasise the mood, while the inside has been glazed to ensure ease of use.
